The Northwest Museum of Arts & Culture is mindful of concerns surrounding the novel coronavirus (COVID-19) and is committed to being responsive. We care about the health and safety of our visitors, staff, and volunteers and will communicate frequently as the situation develops. As of today, March 12, there are no confirmed cases of the virus in Spokane County.

The Museum remains open during normal operating hours. Special programs will go on as planned. We have increased our cleaning and disinfecting of frequently touched surfaces and have installed additional hand sanitizer stations throughout the facility to help keep our visitors safe.

We encourage visitors to follow the recommendations of local officials to practice social distancing and advise those in high-risk populations to stay home if they are feeling ill or are simply concerned about potential exposure.

The MAC is closely monitoring the situation through the Spokane Regional Health District and the Washington State Department of Health and will evaluate operations based upon the most up-to-date information available, communicating any changes that may occur. Please continue to check www.northwestmuseum.org for updates.

In the meantime, our spacious galleries can easily accommodate social distancing so that you may enjoy this special engagement of Pompeii: The Immortal City.

Thank you for your understanding and patience as we do our best to limit the impact of this public health situation.
